

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A dipole antenna is disclosed, and two electrodes thereof are respectively disposed on two surfaces of a substrate, wherein those two surfaces are parallel to each other. Metallic layers allocated in the substrate are used to control impedance match, and to promote the antenna gain and operation bandwidth of the dipole antenna.